During the winter months, many locations have very limited hours or may be closed entirely. During the growing season, these Vendors may require an order to be placed for plant pickup and may not be “open” for customer browsing.

The native plant vendor list was compiled to be used as a reference tool for gardeners in the Washington D.C. metropolitan area. The City of College Park does not endorse any vendors included on the list. Vendors included in the list grow a variety of native plants, and refrain from using pesticides or herbicides in their nursery.
